7 Mill Lane

The home unfolds across three floors, with dramatic entrance hall lit by Tom Dixon pendants, polished concrete flooring, and a floating staircase that sets the tone for the interior. The expensive open plan living and dining space is flooded with natural light, enhanced by a striking Majorelle blue feature wall, a contemporary fireplace and seamless integration with the Nicholas Anthony kitchen which was recently shortlisted for the International Design and Architecture Awards 2025. Outfitted with Sub-zero Wolf ovens, Gaggenau appliances and a hidden utility room, the kitchen has been designed with both form and function in mind.

Perfect for entertaining or retreat, the ground floor extends to leisure facilities that transform the house into a private haven. An indoor heated 18 metre pool, gym and changing facilities open through panoramic sliding doors to a south-facing garden, creating a fluid connection between indoors and outdoors. A self-contained studio and office with separate kitchen and wet room offer further flexibility whether for remote work, additional guest accommodation or conversion to a separate annex.

Upstairs, the exceptional principal bedroom suite includes a generous dressing room and en suite with sweeping views across the living roof of the pool, over the golf course and towards Walberswick Harbour. Additional en suite bedrooms, guest rooms and a versatile family suite on the top floor ensure ample accommodation, with the potential for as many as 10 bedrooms in total.

Extending to some 6500 sq. ft, this exclusive residence is more than a home; it is a sanctuary where cutting edge design, leisure and coastal living converge – set within one of the country’s most sought after locations.
